

SECTION: CERTIFICATION

SUBJECT: Eligibility Requirement

ITEM: Length of Certification

Policy The length of the certification period for each participant varies, according to the following guidelines.

Basis for policy C.F.R. 246.7 (g) and (h)

Initial Certification Period Guidelines At the time of certification, a local agency shall notify a participant either verbally or in writing of the length of their certification period. The following table describes the certification period for each category of participant:

Category	Certification Period
Prenatal women	The duration of the woman's pregnancy plus up to six weeks postpartum.
Non-breastfeeding postpartum women	Approximately six months, ending with the last day of the sixth month following the delivery or termination of the pregnancy.
Breastfeeding women	Two periods of approximately six months each, ending with either the end of the month in which the mother stops breastfeeding or in which the infant reaches her/his first birthday, whichever comes first.

Infants	Period of up to one year, ending with the end of the month in which the infant reaches her/his first birthday. Or , a period of six months if enrolled when 7 months old or more.
Children	Periods of up to six months, ending with the end of the month in which the child reaches her/his fifth birthday.

Staff shall designate certification periods for eligible participants for the full allowable period above. However, the length of the certification period may be shortened if a participant is later disqualified from the program (e.g., increased income) prior to expiration of the period in accord with WPM Section 280-20.

Mid-certification category/priority change

When a participant's category changes in mid-certification, the participant's priority ranking may also change. The following table describes specific situations and their consequences.

References:

- For information on priority ranking, refer to WPM Section 230-10.
- For information about category changes and food instrument issuance, refer to WPM Section 310-30.
- For information on disqualification due to ineligibility, refer to WPM Sections 280-10 and 260-40.

IF category changes from ...	AND...	THEN a local agency shall...
Breastfeeding to Non-breastfeeding	The participant is less than six months postpartum	Determine if the indicators of participant's nutritional need that applied in the breastfeeding categories are valid for non-breastfeeding category. If yes, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • continue to serve until the end of the sixth month following delivery, and • it is not necessary to conduct a new assessment for eligibility or risk.

		If no, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> reassess nutritional risk if eligible, update the record with the new nutrition indicators and continue to serve until the end of the sixth month following delivery, or if ineligible, issue a “Notice of Action Affecting WIC Program Participation” and disqualify the participant.
Breastfeeding to Non-breastfeeding and...	The participant is more than six months postpartum	Issue a “Notice of Action Affecting WIC Program Participation” and disqualify the participant as categorically ineligible.
Either breastfeeding or non-breastfeeding	The participant becomes a prenatal applicant	Reassess participant and if eligible, recertify as a prenatal participant.
Infant to a child at one year	Infant was enrolled at seven months of age or older	Continue to serve the participant for a full six months. There is no requirement for new eligibility or risk evaluation.

IF a change in category...	THEN a local agency shall...
causes a participant to be categorically ineligible, or in a priority not currently being served by the local agency.	issue a “Notice of Action Affecting WIC Program Participation” and disqualify the participant.

Recertification period guidelines

The following guidelines apply to subsequent certifications:

- A participant is not eligible for food instruments after the end of their certification period unless a local agency recertifies them.
- The recertification period always follows the previous certification period. The periods never overlap.
- A local agency shall make every effort to schedule and complete a recertification during the last two months of the current certification period to avoid any breaks in receipt of food instruments.

Six-week postpartum certification

The prenatal certification period is valid until a local agency conducts the “six-week postpartum certification.” During the six-weeks following delivery local agencies shall issue the appropriate prescription according to the woman’s current category.

Note: If a local agency does not conduct the “six-week postpartum certification” within the six weeks following delivery and she is ineligible for recertification, the participant may not receive food instruments at that certification visit if she is ineligible, since the prenatal certification period will have expired. If the participant is found ineligible, a local agency shall disqualify the participant, and issue a “Notice of Action Affecting WIC Program Applicants” effective immediately. See page 5 of 5 under “Ineligible...after certification end date.”
